THE WRONG WAY to buy drugs, is the cheap way. If medicine is to cure the sick, it must be the best and purest, and skill and experience are also necessary in the art of compounding physicians' prescriptions. We are registered pharmacists and we employ registered clerks in our prescription department. There's a very pointed moral to this true tale.
We simply give you our name and let you draw your own

WM. F. A. SETCHELL.

William F. A. Setchell, whose death occurred at his late home in Fitchburg last Saturday, was for 25 years or more a resident of Arlington, having his home on what is now known as Appleton place. Mr. Setchell was born in Boston in 1825, and came to Arlington in the early forties where he at once found employment in the old saw factory up what was then "High street." Mr. Setchell continued in this factory until 1865 when he went to New York, and there with his family made his home for a number of years, being engaged in active business. In the early seventies he left New York for Fitchburg. He resided there up to the time of his death. Mr. Setchell was the first foreman of the Old Eureka, and the first chief engineer of the Arlington fire department. He was ever loyal to the Old Eureka, and was sure to be present at any fireman's parade where the Eureka was to be in line of march.
Mr. Setchell was a genial man to meet, and made friends where-ever he went. He leaves a wife and three daughters. Interment was in Mt. Pleasant cemetery. His pastor at Fitchburg conducted brief services at the grave. Many Arlington people, friends of the deceased, were present at these services.

A. H. S. NOTES.

Senior Reception.

The reception and dance given by the senior class, Arlington high school in Associates hall last Wednesday evening, was a most delightful affair. About 120 persons were present, consisting of many members of the school, quite a number of graduates and many outside friends. Principal Ira W. Holt and Mrs. Holt and several other teachers, as well as a number of parents, looked in on the gathering during the evening. The matrons were: Mrs. Elbert L. Churchill and Mrs. Wendell E. Richardson, and several of the young men of the senior class acted as ushers. Neat dance orders were distributed, which made the dance a little different from most of those of the past few seasons.
Poole's orchestra played a variety of the popular music of the day, and en-cores were demanded continually.
During the intermission frappe was served in the supper room.

For a high school party the dresses were quite elaborate, many very pretty gowns being noticed. The class of 1902 A. H. S. has taken the lead in many original enterprises, and this affair adds another to the growing list of successful social functions.
The committee who had the management of the party was: Misses Ruth Richardson and Julia Sheehan and Messrs. Frank Grey, Leon Smith, and Louis Moore.

The game with West Roxbury high last week Friday went to Arlington by a score of 5-3.

The game Monday with Everett high did not materialize. Everett did not appear.

The Eureka's were easily defeated Tuesday morning by 25 to 5.

Arlington clerks defeated the high school team Wednesday afternoon, 10 to 1. Batteries, Shean and O'Donnell for the clerks, and Gott and Kelley for A. H. S. The features of the game were several brilliant catches by the schools boys and the batting of Manager Clark and Hendricks of the clerks. But one error was credited to the clerks, who played as follows:
Shea, p.; O'Donnell, c.; Hendricks,
1; Gordon, 2; Horgan, ss.; Flanders, 3; Small, l. f.; Winn, c. f.; Clark, r. f.
Hathaway Mills, who broke his ankle recently in a ball game, is able to get out with the aid of a crutch.

Invitations are out for the graduation exercises to be held next Thursday evening in the town hall. Dancing will follow to the music of Custer's orchestra.

RACING NOTES.

The cup won by Ben. Pike with Little Boy, Jr., April 19, at Combination park, was received by him this week.

Mr. Anderson's Drusella won third prize Tuesday at Combination park.

N. J. Hardy won with Libby P. at Combination park Saturday evening.

Dr. Alderman is driving a pair of fine chestnut roadsters.

Mose Sinclair, J. Prescott Gage's chestnut pacer, is going fast at Combination park.

Chester Peck purchased a new road cart last week for the speedway.

E. J. McGrath drove Lizzie W. in the free-for-all pace Tuesday night a half mile in 1:7 1-2.

Saturday's game between the Boat club and Arlington A. A. was a close and exciting one. The latter got the lead and held it until near the end, when the Boat club braced up and won by 7 to 5. Catcher Wood of the Boat club had his head split by a foul striking his mask in the last inning, but pluckily stuck to his post.

NEW BELMONT LIBRARY.

LIBRARY PRESENTATION.

The new public library at Belmont was opened to the public for the first time, Tuesday, and during the day a large number of interested townspeople inspected the building and praised its arrangements and appointments.

In the evening the dedication exercises were held. There was a large attendance. Gustavus C. Holt, one of the trustees, presided, and after a few appropriate remarks introduced Charles H. Slade, chairman of the board of selectmen, who read the following letter from Henry O. Underwood, in which the library was presented to the town:

Boston, June 17, 1902.

Honorable Board of Selectmen, Belmont, Mass.:

Gentlemen—It gives me great pleasure now formally to turn over to you, who represent the town, the keys of the new library building.

It is not yet quite complete in some of its minor details. For instance, among these is a bronze tablet and bas-relief of my father and mother, and it may be some months yet before it is wholly completed and placed in the hall.

A long delay has occurred through the non-arrival of the furniture which was lost in transit, and even yet some of the larger pieces are not finished.
The ingenious arrangement of mirrors, by means of which the librarian is to overlook the smoking-room is yet unfinished, as a change of plan necessitated a change in the original design, but the mirrors will be installed shortly.

In spite of this trifling uncompleteness, today seemed a most fitting occasion to make this formal transfer, because this 17th day of June is the 50th anniversary of my father's and mother's wedding, and it was the desire to perpetuate their memory, and thus to make some slight acknowledgment of all they have done for me, that has led me to give this building to the town.

A library seemed especially appropriate, as my father was chairman of the library trustees from the time they were first appointed by the town till his death; was also chairman of the committee that erected the building which contains the town hall and library, and was looking forward hopefully to a time when the latter should have a home of its own. This site also seemed desirable as my mother was born in a house which stood directly across the street.

I would suggest that if suitable portraits or photographs of prominent Belmont people, both of those who are living and who have passed away, could be placed in this library, and also some of the fine, old places that have had to be divided, it would be of great interest to all the people in town. Some kind friends have already offered to give the pictures, and I would suggest that everybody be asked to contribute anything of historical interest that they may have.

The family of Charles Hayden have generously given to the library the fine example of his work, now hanging in the reading room.

The building of this library has given me more pleasure than I have ever had before, and this has been in-in regard to it, especially by the library trustees.

Yours respectfully,

H. O. UNDERWOOD.

John M. Brown, chairman of the library committee, accepted the gift for the town, and in the course of his remarks gave a brief history of the town library.

"The first home of the library was in the old high school building and remained there until 1877, when enlarged quarters being needed, it was removed to the basement of the Unitarian church, and remained there until the town hall and library were finished in 1882, when it was again changed to new and enlarged quarters, which at the time seemed sufficient.

"In 1895, however, the trustees began again to ask in their reports for larger quarters, stating that it would be a generous and gracious act if some past or present resident of Belmont would give to the town a sufficient sum of money to erect a suitable building for its excellent and growing library. Such an edifice, for the donor, and architecturally an ornament to the town, would be a noble memorial."

How well this appeal has been answered we now realize in this fully appointed building, containing all that

NEW ENGLAND BEACHES.

Famous Resorts Along the North Shore and Coast of Maine.

The summer season, although the pleasantest portion of our year brings with its many pleasures and enjoyments quite a little discomfortableness; and with the first spell of hot weather, the average person begins to think of some means of alleviating or escaping from the summer heat, and the initial step is a selection of some resort where the country's cooling air or the exhilarating ocean breezes will change life from a burden to a pleasure.

Of all the summer resorts and haunts in New England, the sea coast resorts extending north from Boston along the shores of Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine have certain charms and attractions which make them the favorite beaches in the country.

Only a short run from Boston is Marblehead, with its pleasant beach and rocky cliffs; Swampscott, Clifton, Devereux and any number of delightful and fashionable summering places.

Further distant is Salisbury beach, celebrated for its fine surf bathing; Hampton Beach in New Hampshire, a favorite spot for the pleasure seeker; York Beach, York Harbor and Kittery Point, all noted for their beautiful scenery and healthful qualities; Wells Beach, Pine Point and Kennebunk, quiet resting places with a beautiful stretch of sea coast, and Old Orchard, the king of New England beaches with its famous sandy beach, magnificent grove and luxurious hotels.

A full description of all these popular watering places is contained in the books published by the Boston & Maine Railroad, "All Along Shore," and "Seashore of New England."

"All Along Shore" is one of 13 descriptive books published by the Passenger Department Boston & Maine Railroad, Boston. Each book describes a different section of New England, and is written up in an interesting and instructive manner.

"Seashore of New England" is one of five beautifully illustrated portfolios; the others consist of "Mountains of New England," "Lakes of New England," "Rivers of New England" and "Picturesque New England."

The new colored "Bird's Eye View from Mt. Washington" is a beautifully gotten up map, and is original in style. It will be mailed to any address upon receipt of six cents. The portfolios will be sent upon receipt of six cents each, the descriptive books upon receipt of two cents for each book.

SPOKEN IN THE PHILIPPINES.

Many Different Languages in Use Among the Islands.

Here are the languages they speak in the Philippines: Ilocano, Igorote, Pangasinan, Pampangan, Tagal, Bicol, Bicol, Visayan, while in the northern part of Luzon there is still another tongue, and the Jolo tribes speak still another, making ten languages for the 10,000,000 people. The dialects and languages of the "non-Christian tribes," as Governor Taft designates a large proportion of this 10,000,000, are beyond comprehension. In answer to a question when he was before the House committee on insular affairs a few weeks ago, Governor Taft gave the following idea of the linguistic qualities of the inhabitants of the Philippine archipelago:

"Beginning at the north of Luzon there is a language in Cagayan and Isabela that is different from any other in the island. On the west side of the northern end of the Island of Luzon is the Ilocano. In Benguet they speak an Igorote language, and also Ilocano to some extent. Coming down the map, there are the Pangasinan and the Ilocano. In Pangasinan both are spoken. Pampangan is spoken in Tarlac, in the southern part, and Pangasinan is spoken in the northern part. In Bulacan, Cavite, Batangas and Tayabas Tagal is spoken, and in the northern part of Ambos Camerines. In Albay and Sorsogon and the southern part of Ambos Camerines the Bicol is spoken. In Masbate, where the three tribes meet, the Bicol, the Visayan and Tagal are all spoken. In Samar, Leyte, Cebu, Bohol and Negros Visayan is spoken, and also Rombon. In Mindoro the Tagal is spoken. Where the Visayan language is spoken they have two dialects, the northern and Cebuyan. The Jolo tribes speak a language of their own."

Natural Cave in Montana.

A remarkable natural cave has been discovered in Montana, about fifty miles east of Butte. A large river with a cataract of about 100 feet was explored for a distance of several miles without discovering its source or outlet. A few articles of stone and copper utensils and some human bones were also discovered in one of the large apartments explored. There were other evidences that at some time in a prehistoric period the cave was used as a habitation. The present entrance to the cave was made by some lime quarries at a point 1600 feet above the bed of the Jefferson River while engaged in blasting rock. The formation of stalactite and other natural decorations throughout the cave are pronounced the most beautiful and varied ever seen.

Sand Pillars.

Travelers in the celebrated Death Valley of California have described the wonderful contortions of the sand pillars that small whirlwinds sometimes send spinning across the hot plain. Even more remarkable are the "dust devils" seen by H. F. Witherby, the English explorer, in the valley of the White Nile. Sometimes two of these whirling columns, gyrating in opposite directions, meet, "and if they be well matched the collision stops them and a struggle ensues as to which way they shall twist. Gradually one gains the mastery, and the two combined begin to gyrate alike and then rush on together." Some of these whirls will strip the clothes from an Arab's back, or twist a goat round and round like a top.

The Use For Funeral Flowers.

"The clause 'please omit flowers,' so often seen in funeral notices, doesn't mean such a loss to us as you might suppose," says a florist. "It used to be that all the flowers received at a funeral were sent to the cemetery and placed upon the grave to wither. A great many people object to this procedure as a sinful waste, and these are the people who advertise, 'Please omit flowers.' But the flowers are seldom really omitted. Some people don't see the announcement, or, if they do, they don't heed it. The flowers come, just the same. In such cases the blossoms are usually given away, after the funeral services, to some hospital or institution where they contribute to the happiness of the living."—Philadelphia Record.

London's Postal Arrangements.

So complete are the postal arrangements of London that there is not a house more than 200 yards from a letter box or 400 from a postoffice and money order office. There are over 10,000 letter boxes, which are cleared every hour from 10 in the morning till five in the evening, and there are twelve deliveries a day in the city. About 200 of the chief sub-offices receive letters and parcels to be delivered in London and its suburbs by special messenger at a charge of three pence a mile. Special deliveries handed in at other offices are forwarded in the ordinary course of post (our American system) to the nearest express delivery office, whence they are sent on by special messenger.

Wives by Purchase.

Wives are still obtained by purchase in parts of Russian Europe. In the Russian district of Kamyschin, on the Volga, for example, this is practically the only way in which marriages are brought about. The price of a pretty girl from a well-to-do family ranges from $50 to $100, and in special cases a much higher sum is obtained. In the villages the lowest price is about $25. It is customary for the fathers of the intending bride and bridegroom to haggle for a long time over the price to be paid for the lady. A young farmer whose father cannot afford to pay for a wife for him need not think of getting married.

ARLINGTON DIRECTORY, 1902.

The canvass is being made for a directory to be issued in September. It is to be a blue book and business directory as heretofore.

The blue book part gives the ladies as well as the men and will print "At home" day, summer residence and telephone numbers for subscribers.

The book will be bound in cloth and contain a map of Arlington and Belmont, corrected to date.

The leading merchants are quick to encourage a good institution and take considerable pride in their directory. The publisher reciprocates by issuing the best book he can produce in the mechanical part of it, as well as in its compilation.

E. A. Jones, publisher, 59 Rindge Ave., North Cambridge.

A SWISS METEORITE.

Found Just After Its Fall Not Far From Lausanne.

Mr. Mermoud communicates to the Astronomical society of France an account of a meteorite found not far from Lausanne, Switzerland, a short time after its fall. The distance is sufficiently unusual to demand notice. On November 30, 1901, four foresters were at work when they heard above them a noise like "the slow fire of infantry" or of "stones ground together." Some 40 seconds later there was a whistling in the air not unlike the noise of "a wheat-reaping machine," and the noise of a fall was heard. The men searched for the body causing the noise, and in searching found a branch of a tree lying on the ground some 30 feet away from its parent tree.

The tree trunk was marked with two fresh wounds in the bark and the meteorite, that has rebounded, was itself found about 15 feet distant. It was still hot, about 50 degrees Centigrade, 122 Fahrenheit, by estimation. It had broken in rebounding and three pieces of it were found. The meteorite weight 705 grams (about 21 ounces) and its form was that of a polyhedron, almost pyramidal. Its surface was black and polished, covered with a patina half a millimetre in thickness. The specimen has been deposited in the Lausanne Museum. It was a part of a larger mass, evidently, for at various places in the vicinity the noise of an explosion was heard by different persons, some of the places being 20 miles distant from the site of the fall. It is a curious coincidence that an earthquake shock was registered at the same moment at one of the Swiss observatories near by. There was probably no connection whatever between the two phenomena.—Philadelphia Record.

Her Preference.

"Do you like poetry?"
"Yes, indeed," answered Mrs. Cumrox. "Prose always looks to me as if they were crowding their words together because they were trying to economize on paper. Poetry looks much livelier and elegant."—Washington Star.

This letter and possibly another will have been written from Beacon Hill before the general court of 1902 takes itself out of the way. It has come to be the custom that the session shall be made as long as possible every year, and the warmer the weather the more talkative and combative the members appear to grow. In 1832 when the record of sessions was begun, the house consisted of 528 members. It assembled Jan. 4 and adjourned March 24, after a session of 80 days. In six years the number of days had run up to 113, when it dropped, and not until 1846 was the 100 mark again touched. For 11 years following, during all which time the membership of the house varied, running from 402, the highest, in 1852, to 255 in 1847, the sessions all were long, ranging from 158 days in 1856 to 111 in 1847. In 1858, however, the membership was reduced to 240, at which figure it has remained ever since, and the session of that year consisted of only 81 days. This number has gradually increased until prorogation was reached until July 27 in 1883, after a session of 206 days. This was the year when Butler was governor, and was conducting his famous investigation of the Tewksbury almshouse. In 1900, the year of the Boston & Albany lease to the New York Central, the general court sat till July 17, but last year it got through June 19. From present indications it will not dissolve much before June 28.

The Boston subway bill is, of course, the chief cause of the long delay, but this is going ahead reasonably fast, in view of the great importance of the measure. A scheme of time-saving has been adopted with respect to it, however, which is not without its merits. Every great measure like this which comes into the house is made the target of all kinds of amendments, some put forward in good faith, and others introduced merely that a few statesmen may get their names in print. But this bill is peculiar, inasmuch as it is, in the first place, a bill upon which state, city and contracting street railway company have agreed, as far as it is possible and proper that they should agree in advance of legislation; and notwithstanding that it is unquestionably the prerogative of the general court to revise the measure, it stands alone in the legislation of this year to this extent, that it is a business contract, involving the expenditure of millions of dollars, and it is questionable as to how far the legislature should go in requiring expenditures which neither city nor company is willing to make.

For example, one proposed amendment to the bill requires that all the work of construction shall be done by citizens, and that the rate of wages paid shall be the same as that paid by the city of Boston. This rate is two dollars a day, and the adoption of this amendment means that the subway, according to the figures of the Boston Transit commission, will cost some $1,200,000 more if built under this amendment than if the transit commission is left free to make contracts to the best business advantage. In arriving at their decision upon this question, the legislators must take their stand from one of two points of view: If the citizen labor clause is added, so much more money will be circulated among American laborers and mechanics; but, on the other hand, with this amendment in force the tunnel and subway will cost the city of Boston more than a million dollars more than it need to, the company will be required to pay 4 1-2 percent interest upon this extra cost for twenty-five years, and this is the consideration which brings the matter right home—this unnecessary principal and interest must, finally, come out of the pockets of the men, women and children who ride on the trains and cars; and as these are largely working people, of one class or another, it is the poor class rather than rich commonwealth, city or company that is to be taxed for the benefit of laborers, whose places are controlled, oftener than not, by politicians.

With such problems as this to solve it is no wonder, therefore, that the general court insists upon taking a little time to discuss the subway bill, and it would be false to its trust if it did not. The time-saver, to which reference has been made, is the plan whereby the bill will be permitted to go through the house with whatever amendments will be loaded upon it. The senate will then be called upon to reduce the bill to such shape as will be satisfactory to the representatives of the city, the state and the company, and then it will be the duty of the house to decide whether or not it will approve the amendments which the senate has added. It is felt that if the bill is thus removed from the immediate scene of contention in the house, and given a purifying treatment in the upper branch, the representatives will be enabled to get a clearer and fairer view of it than they possibly could otherwise; and, furthermore, the assumption is that when the bill has passed the senate it will be in such form as Governor Crane will be willing to sign. This proposition again exhibits the wonderful power exercised by Governor

Crane in his dealings with the general court—a power, however, which never has been used except for the broadest and most beneficent purposes.

Only one important change in the election laws has been made this year and this is by means of the Luce direct nomination bill, which is before the governor for signature. This bill does not affect towns at all and applies only to representatives from districts wholly within cities and to the nomination of elective city officers. It provides for the nomination of all these, from mayor down, by direct vote in the caucuses, with the solitary exception of the Boston school board. This exception is made because of the system here of making nominations by nomination papers, as by the Public School association, the Independent Women Voters and others. In Boston the Public School association last year elected enough of its ticket to give it control of the board and it will redouble its efforts next fall. It is a non-partisan organization whose purpose it is to divorce the schools from politics and it is so powerful that last fall the Republicans endorsed its ticket without change while the Democrats approved several of its selections. It has trouble ahead, for the politicians will strain every effort to defeat it in December and in the absence of a mayoralty election the school board contests will be the leading features of the city campaign.

To return to the Luce bill, candidates may get places on the ballot by obtaining the signatures of five legal voters to their papers; and although the simplicity of this system may have a tendency to make candidacies numerous, it is said that in practice the number of candidates is not excessive. Moreover, the expense of a campaign under the direct nomination system, is as great as the cost of an election and this fact will hold personal ambitions somewhat in check. The abolition of mayoralty conventions in all cities is one of the most noteworthy features of the new system.

Edward Stanley Backman, page to Speaker Myers, is an enterprising young man, one of whose recent achievements is worthy of a little free advertising. Backman has been a page seven years, and notwithstanding his boyish appearance has been a proud husband for about a year. He is desirous also of improving his condition and wants to study law, and to enable him to attend night college and fit himself for the heavier duties of life he applied to Sergeant-at-Arms Davis for appointment to the messenger corps, in which there have been several vacancies of late. It was too much to expect, however, that any one but a Grand Army man would get one of these coveted places, and he was turned down. Nothing discouraged, Backman, who is an amateur photographer, brought his camera to the state house and amused himself in odd hours in photographing all the interesting sights of the building. He developed his own plates and had half-tones made of them and not long ago the members of the house found themselves the ready purchasers of a neat little "State House Guide," which the young man had compiled and was selling for a quarter. He already has disposed of about 600, but it will require a larger sale than that to cover the cost. The proceeds, if any, will go toward the purchase of law books. Meantime there is a vacancy in the messenger corps caused by the death of Albro Bean, and if Major Davis wants to "break the chain" caused by the uninterrupted appointment of G. A. R. men for a great many years, he has a chance to do this and also reward real merit by promoting Backman.

There is not very much doing in the political field, except that the Republican politicians are beginning to talk rather loudly that a candidate for lieutenant-governor is wanted who does not expect a mortgage on the gubernatorial nomination handed him with the nomination for second place. The increase in this sentiment is marked and it assists the inference that unless the situation takes very definite shape after the adjournment of the legislature and the entry of Speaker Myers into the field or the announcement of his decision to keep out of it, the western part of the state will be very industriously canvassed in the interest of some candidate from that section. The most likely name is that of Colonel A. H. Goetting of Springfield, notwithstanding that a movement is on in favor of ex-Senator Charles N. Clark of Northampton, treasurer of Smith college. The Clark boom is undefined, however, and had its origin in the legislature, while the tendency toward Goetting is more or less general and probably would become more pronounced were it not that Colonel Goetting is friendly to General Curtis Guild, Jr., and would not wilfully do anything to cause him uneasiness. Goetting's modest attitude has had no effect, however, in stopping the talk that the colonel may yet be put forward as a compromise candidate—a compromise between east and west as well as between Guild and Myers—and this plan is being suggested by some of the leading papers.

The signs are said to be pointing toward Senator George R. Jones of Melrose as the next president of the senate and the retirement of President Soule at the end of the session. The situation is still in abeyance, but the uncertainty will not be allowed to continue into the summer.

THE PULPIT.

The pulpit has no right longer to shield itself from criticism under the plea that its occupant has received a "divine call" to preach. The call to the ministry is made precisely in the same manner as the call to any other department of labor is made.

The minister is no more a man sent of God than is any other individual to whatever department of legitimate labor. Infinite mischief has been wrought by throwing around the clergyman a sort of divine safeguard which is supposed to be withheld from all other classes of mortal men. Many a man substantially devoid of both brains and culture has been tolerated in the pulpit simply because he has fallen back upon that Pauline declaration, "Woe is me if I preach not the gospel." A thousand times truer would that declaration be if it read something after this wise: "Woe be to you in the pews if I do attempt to preach the gospel." No church organization has the right to demand or expect men and women to attend its services unless they shall be fed and instructed thereby. An hour lost in church is equal to an hour lost elsewhere. If you, Mr. Clergyman, want to stop golf playing on Sunday, make your Sunday church services so interesting that men and women will feel they have lost something by not attending the preached word. We have a profound respect for an intelligent and up-to-date ministry, but we have no patience with that inability which cowardly hides itself behind the persistent "I am called to preach," and "Woe is me if I am disobedient unto the heavenly vision." Let us use our arithmetic a little. Nowhere has God displayed greater wisdom than he has in the economy of forces throughout nature. Now if it were a fact that he in a special way calls one to the ministry, would he be likely to call six or eight to do the work of one or two men? It is safe to say that in every suburban town in near vicinity to Boston there are a half dozen, or more churches where two would do the work more efficiently, for in case of the lesser number, greater ability could be secured for pulpit instruction. If one is to be fed on "husks" of a Sunday, you may be sure he will make his way to the golf ground or elsewhere instead of attending church services, while if he is fed on "the full corn in the ear" he will likely be found early in his pew. Let the young theological candidate remember that Paul had brains as well as that aggressive religious zeal which got hold of men and held them.

ARLINGTON LOCALS.

An entertainment was held by the Methodists for the benefit of the Sunday school library.

Saturday, June 28th, J. Prescott Gage of Arlington will sell the Crescent hall building, corner of Massachusetts and Park avenues, Arlington Heights, at auction. The sale will take place at 4 p. m. Terms and further particulars of property may be had by applying to Mr. Gage. Notice change in date from today until next Saturday.

David Shean has returned from a trip to New York with the Boston college nine.

Misses Helen and Vida Damon will leave today for California.

Miss Elizabeth DeBlois closes her school next Friday for the summer.

The exemplification of its work by the Relief Corps came off Wednesday in Grand Army hall. Representatives were present from 15 relief corps, and two department officers from New Hampshire and one from Kentucky. The work of the ritual was performed. The Kate Belle Walton concert company gave the 300 or more who were present an enjoyable entertainment, which was interspersed with brief addresses by the department officers. Mrs. Clara J. Kimball presided. Lunch was served in the banquet hall.

The Odd Fellows are planning a trolley ride to visit the home in Worcester a week from tomorrow.

Mrs. Harriet Locke Pierce, widow of the late Thomas P. Pierce, observed her 88th birthday last Monday. Mrs. Pierce is the oldest living native resident of Arlington, her birthplace being the old Locke homestead on Vine street, now Paul Revere road, Arlington Heights, but she now makes her home with her daughter at 9 Palmer street. The old house was torn down a few years ago. She is well and bright, possessing all her faculties. She spent the day quietly receiving a number of friends and relatives.

The ladies of the Samaritan society connected with the Universalist church will hold their garden party in the vestry of the church next Tuesday evening.

Warner's Arlington express, 1180 Massachusetts avenue, has been expressing to and from Boston for many a year, handling goods with great care and promptly delivering them. See advertisement in this issue.

President Wellington of the historical society was promptly on hand Thursday evening at the Old Home week meeting, but no one else put in an appearance. It is the more generous way to put it, that everybody forgot the date of the meeting.

Harvey S. Sears accompanied his son Walton H. Saturday as far as New York on the son's way to Steelton, Penn.

A few of the prominent men of the upper section of the town have considered the advisability of making the Acton club a permanent organization for business and social purposes.

The Tabard Inn library, a branch of the Book Lovers library, has established a local station at the drug store of H. A. Perham, and a hand, some revolving bookcase has already been placed there. This case is supplied with some 200 well-bound books, of large assortment of titles, and already a number of persons have joined the library, and are reaping the benefits of this new institution.

The dance last Saturday evening at the Golf club was a most enjoyable one. The weather was perfect and many members and a large number of guests were present to enjoy the dancing to the music of Custer's orchestra.

Tomorrow morning at 10:30 the graduating class of the Arlington high school attend service at St. John's church, when the rector, Rev. James Geames, will preach a special sermon to the class. Julius Hackel, violinist, will assist in the music.

W. Allen Taft, Jr., won first prize, a handsome gold medal, in the individual manual drill at the military school at Sing Sing, N. Y., from which he was graduated last week.

Mrs. Bowman F. Wilder and her mother, Mrs. Gilson, of Chapman street, were in Northampton, Sunday, and the early part of the week, attending the commencement exercises of Smith College. A sister of Mrs. Wilder's is a member of the graduating class.

As usual, Arlington was well represented at the Wellesley float last Tuesday, a number of the young people attending this as well as other commencement exercises the past week.

A large number of local stores were closed the 17th, although a few kept open part of the morning. Arlington tradesmen are gradually falling into line with other towns and giving their clerks the advantages of the different holidays.

Miss Ella Somerby, who has been teaching at New Orleans, La., has returned home for the summer vacation. David Elwell has been cruising along the coast of Maine with some Tech. friends the past week or 10 days.

A match was played between the Arlington Junior team and that of the Noble & Greenough school, Monday, on the links of the Oakley Country club, the former winning, 17 to 14.

A women's handicap match play competition versus bogey was played Tuesday morning on the links of the Arlington Golf club, and Miss F. A. Hill and Miss Alice Teel were tied for first place. The playoff will occur next week. The scores were withheld.

The men held a similar event, which was won by A. C. Hill, with a score of even up.

A mixed foursomes handicap stroke competition was the afternoon event, being won by Miss A. Fletcher and J. Colman, Jr., who went over the links for a net of $9.

Tea was served in the afternoon and many members and visitors were about the house.

The tennis courts are nearly completed, the back nets having been put in place the past week.

A unique sermon was preached by Rev. G. W. Brooks, who exchanged with Rev. John G. Taylor last Sunday. The Endeavor society held an interesting temperance meeting Sunday evening.

Services will be held in Park Avenue church throughout the summer at the usual times. Either the pastor or some one from out of town will preach.

Already vacation has begun, for some are going away and others are anticipating going.

The pastor and his wife took a day off Monday by going to Provincetown on the steamer Bay View. It was a charming day and a beautiful sail.

Tuesday the Park Avenue Sunday school and their friends, 225 strong, went to Billerica on a picnic. All were bent on a good time and they were not disappointed. The spot was ideal—pine grove, broad green field and the easy flowing river. The committee anticipated every want. Lemonade, good spring water and a charming luncheon place for all. Then games, tennis, baseball, boating, racing and lots of fun thrown in not on the program. The ball game attracted the crowd and was hotly contested by the heroes of the bat. The tug-of-war between the married men and the single men resulted in a victory for the single men in two out of the three. Boating was great all day and all who wished a sail over the sea had it, and a large number of the young voyagers had several rides, for they were always supplied with tickets. About 7.45 the party arrived home without a mishap, and unanimously expressed themselves in favor of another. Great credit is due to Minot A. Bridgman, Chas. Sloan and Ernest A. Nourse, who were tireless and full of suggestion for everybody's pleasure.

Seven new houses are to be built during the summer, besides those already under way. The building inspector will be kept busy, and judging by a cellar on Park avenue, it may be necessary to keep both eyes open.

Improvements of which the townspeople shall not be ashamed are what are needed in town to increase the population, add to valuation and reduce taxes. It is to be hoped that the foolish boom will not strike here, for, if it does, the Heights will be in the sad plight of some towns around Boston well known among real estate agents. The inspector is expected to be vigilant. Charles E. Crowe, the well known custom boot maker of East Lexington, has opened a branch shop at the Heights, 1375 Massachusetts avenue, where he is prepared to make, sell and repair boots and shoes, making repairs a specialty. He thanks his patrons for past favors and hopes still to continue to serve them.

Mrs. L. A. Whitaker entertained the Sunshine club at her home in Jamaica Plain Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Finlay Cameron and daughter Bessie left for Cape Breton Island Saturday.

The Baptist Sunday school went on its picnic to Bedford park Tuesday in two special cars. Some 150 attended and all greatly enjoyed the occasion. Baseball, potato, sack and other races.

Editor Enterprise:

In the last issue of The Enterprise in the Arlington Heights column there occurred a mistake, which must be corrected. The item referred to was about the meeting of the Young Men's league, and stated that E. Nelson Blake could not be present at that meeting, then saying that I made an "address." The natural inference would be that I spoke in place of Mr. Blake, which is utterly untrue. Three other gentlemen, John W. White, B. F. Cann and Thomas A. Trefethen, were present, and were asked by the president to speak, which they all did, and did well. Then the president, probably thinking that he must not leave me out, called on me also, much to my dismay. That is all there was to the "address," and it was as a matter fact a very feeble bleat. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss ways and means of securing some place which can be turned into a gymnasium. The young men's league is a sort of Y. M. C. A., and very ambitious to start a gymnasium. On account of their small numbers, they find many difficulties in their way. Since this meeting I have been told that there have been other movements in this same direction in some of the churches in town. Isn't there a field here for a flourishing Y. M. C. A.?

GRADUATIONS.

High School.

The graduation exercises of the class of 1902, Lexington High school, took place in the town hall Wednesday evening. The places of honor on the program were occupied by the names of Miss Helen French and Hugh Greeley. A cast of the bust of Zeus was presented by the graduating class to the school, the presentation being made by James McCarthy. Mr. McCarthy expressed the regret of the class that they were graduating before the new building is completed, and the hope that the coming classes would avail themselves of the improved facilities by increased activity in things not directly in line of class room work, such as athletics, debating, etc., things which they had not been able to accomplish. The class of 1902 did, however, have the honor of being the first high school class to leave a gift in the new building. In his speech of acceptance in behalf of the school, Randall Houghton assured the class of 1902 that the policy indicated by it would be pursued by coming classes.

The hall was prettily decorated with flowers, for which the class was indebted to James F. Russell. A new custom was inaugurated, being a baccalaureate sermon, the first one being preached by Rev. F. A. MacDonald of the Baptist church.

THE PROGRAM.

Invocation, Rev. C. A. Staples
Overture, "Poet and Peasant," Super Greeting, Hugh Greeley Old Lexington, Jessie Brown
The Party, Ella Tewksbury
Gondolier, Gruenwald
The Visit of Lafayette, Winifred Griffin

Selection from "The Little Duchess," DeKoven Presentation of Class Gift, James McCarthy Acceptance in Behalf of the School, Randall Houghton Presentation of Diplomas, Rev. L. D. Cochrane.
Benediction, Rev. C. A. Staples.

March.
The selections read are from "The Dawn of Peace: A Story of Old Lexington," written in collaboration by the members of the class. The entire story is open to inspection in the reading room of the library.
The musical numbers were furnished by the courtesy of the Verdi Orchestral club.

The prize offered by Robert P. Clapp for excellence in the extemporaneous use of written English, has been awarded to Miss Helen S. French; that for excellence in oral language to Hugh P. Greeley.

CLASS OF 1902.

Classical Course—Dora Louise Ames, Helen Somerby French, Harry Abbott Gallagher, Hugh Payne Greeley.
Latin Course—Beatrice Marion Batchelder, Jessie Theodora Brown, Leslie Frost Butterfield, Mabel Estella Jackson, Mabel Emma Macomber, Jas. Franklin McCarthy, George Alice Peters, Ella May Tewksbury, Henry Odin Tilton.

English Course—Anita Kilham Dale, Winifred Viola Griffin, Richard Everett Wellington.

Class Reception.

The class reception was held Thursday evening in the town hall. Every one seems to agree that this reception was one of the most successful yet given by the graduating classes. There was a big crowd and every one had a good time.

The invited guests were received by the class from 8 to 9. The grand march was led by Miss Anita Dale and Hugh Greeley. Foote's orchestra furnished very satisfactory music. Frappe was served, Janelle being caterer.

Hancock School.

The exercises Thursday afternoon at the graduation of the ninth grade from the Hancock school, were very interesting. The recitations and singing showed careful training. Clifford Muzzey was the star of the afternoon with his very original essay about the pen versus the sword. He had something to say and said it. The exhibition of writing and drawing done at the Hancock school shows what talent can be brought out in children with the right teaching. Some of the work done even in the lowest grades was remarkably good. Miss A. Edna McLean of Newton has had charge of drawing the past year.

The program: Invocation, Rev. C. A. Staples; "When Lilac Buds Began to Swell," Caldwell; "Bell of Atril," Longfellow, Ethel Foster; "John Burns at Gettysburg," Bret Harte, Thomas Carter; trio, "The Torrent," Marchant; "Should Ye Censure the New England Puritans for Their Treatment of the So-called Witches?" written by Grace Roberts, Katherine Vaughn; piano solo, "Cymbals and Castanets," Schmoll, Mildred Davis; "The Broomstick Train," Holmes, Agnes Packard; "Love in a Rose Bush," Fallersleben, pupils of Grade VII; "Old Ipswich original, Robert Dodge; "Pipes of Lucknow," Whittier, Helen Woodward; trio, "Bugle Song," Marshall; From Speech of Unveiling of Soldier's Monument, McKinley, Harold Chatfield; "Which Has Done the Most for Our Country, the Pen or the Sword?" original, Clifford Muzzey; presentation of diplomas, Dr. Piper; "Summer Woods," Caldwell; benediction, Rev. C. F. Carter.

The Graduates—Louis Harrison Baber, Katherine Desmond Buckley, Thomas Walker Carter, Harold Benjamin Chatfield, Stella Mae Comley, Rey Winslow Curtis, Mildred Ethelend Davis, Robert Lincoln Dodge, Hattie Martha Fisher, Annie Whitney Foster, Charles Emerson Fox, Paul Franks, Joseph Albert Gallagher, May Hartwell Gleason, MacGregor Hamilton, Katherine Harrington, Edith Cogswell Kilgour, Mary Estella Lowe, Maud Katherine MacDonald, Florence MacKinnon, Frank Willard McDonald, Mabel McLellan, Mary Catherine McKearney, Clifford Loring Muzzey, Maria Louise Neville, Katherine Louise O'Leary, Agnes Tupper Packard, Lawrence Boynton Page, Harold Clifton Pierce, Goldie Ellie Powell, Grace Evelyn Roberts, Sally Irving Sherburne, Isabella Marguerita Spencer, Edith Marion Sturtevant, Katherine Veronica Vaughn, Mary Ellen Vaughn, Florence Vivian Walker, Bessie Watt, Leora Agnes Whiting, Helen Woodward, Ada Evaline Woodward.

Adams School.

The graduating exercises of the Adams school were held in Village hall at 10 o'clock, Thursday morning. The class numbers 13, four boys and nine girls, who have successfully completed their preparation for the high school. The program was as follows: Opening address, Timothy Flynn; antiphon, shrodoah dahes restheses h singing, "Vacation Song," recitation, "The Chambered Nautilus," Clara Dane; reading, selections from "Lady of the Lake," class; trio, Beulah Locke, violin; Abbie Fletcher, piano; Timothy Flynn, cornet; reading of composition, Everett Wellington, Maurice Thompson; singing, "Sweet the Angelus Is Ringing," reading, composition, Nellie Sim, Edith Reynolds, Timothy Flynn; singing, "Lift Thine Eyes," recitations, Beulah Locke, Edith Sim; recitation, Abbie Fletcher; singing, "My Heart's in the Highlands," history recitation, Everett Wellington, William Sandison, Marion Dinwoodee, Edith E. Sim, Edith Reynolds, Katie Foster; singing, "Come, Gentle Sleep," history recitations, Maurice Thompson, Nellie Sim, Abbie Fletcher, Lillian Sim, Timothy Flynn, Beulah Locke; recitation, Lillian Sim; "Hark the Vesper Hymn Is Stealing," closing address, Edith Sim; presentation of diplomas and address to class, Rev. L. D. Cochrane.

There were on exhibition drawings made by the pupils of the school. The hall was decorated with ferns, flowers, evergreens and pink tissue. Miss Ingram, the principal, presided, and Mrs. H. E. Holt had charge of the music.

WHICH HAS DONE THE MOST FOR OUR COUNTRY, THE PEN OR THE SWORD?

By Clifford Muzzey.

The pen is mightier than the sword. The sword is necessary at times, but the pen is invaluable at all times. Were it not for the pen there would be no literature, and civilization would be crude indeed were it not for literature. Man finds a way of expressing his thoughts and conveying them to others by means of the pen. Any barbarian can wield a sword, but the pen is used only by cultured and educated people. In countries like Africa, where the sword is predominant, and the land is open to war and pillage, people live in rude huts and will continue to do so until the "white man's burden" is accomplished. But in peaceful countries like our own, where the pen is predominant, and the government is guided by such masterpieces of literature as the Declaration of Independence and the constitution, the people live in comfortable houses with every convenience that civilized man can produce.

It might be said that the pen is the key to civilization. In the olden times when war was won by force alone, the sword was indeed great. The pen to help, however, civilization has progressed, and with it mighty implements of war created. Two thousand years ago, figuratively speaking, the sword consisted of battle axes, swords, battering rams and war chariots. To prove that knowledge is power, the pen has changed these to mighty engines of war; battle ships, cannon, rifles and bullet proof cloth. "How," you say, "did the pen do this?" Without the pen, man could not pursue the scientific researches. One man's life time would be insufficient to probe the mysteries of science. With the aid of the pen, however, one man may profit by the experience of his predecessors and in this way solve the problem. So scientific men have labored until at last they have found nitro-glycerine, the greatest combustible on earth, and in it a means of propelling the mighty engines. And so in the sword's own profession, war, the pen has thrown the sword into insignificance.

The above was delivered by Clifford Muzzey at the Hancock school graduation exercises Thursday afternoon.

Second alarm, repetition of first; general alarm, eleven blows; all out, two blows; brush fire, three blows followed by box number.

SPECIAL SIGNALS.

Test signal, one blow at 12 m.; no school signal, three blows repeated three times; police call, five blows; three times; special signal, 22 five times from electric light station.

LOCATION OF WHISTLES, ETC.

Whistle at electric light station, bell on Follen church, East Lexington, taper at residence of chief engineer, taper at residence of first assistant engineer, taper at residence of second assistant engineer, taper at pumping station, taper at residence of Wm. B. Foster, police, taper at residence of C. H. Franks, police, taper at centre engine house, taper at East Lexington engine house, taper at residence of James B. Shively.

INSTRUCTIONS.

Before giving an alarm be sure a fire exists.
Give the alarm at the nearest box.
Pull the hook way down, only once, and let go.
Never give an alarm for a fire seen at a distance.
Wait at the box, if possible, and direct the firemen to the fire.
Never give a second alarm for the same fire; all second alarms are given by the engineers or other persons in authority.
Never give an alarm for a brush fire unless buildings are in danger; but inform the engineers and they will take action to extinguish it.
Citizens are requested to inform themselves as to the location of keys. Signs over the boxes will give the necessary information.

CAUTION TO PERSONS HAVING KEYS.

Never open boxes except to give an alarm.
You cannot remove your key until an engineer releases it, and it will then be returned to you.
Never allow the key out of your possession except to some responsible party, for the purpose of giving an alarm, and then see that it is returned.
If you remove the key from place of residence or business, return the key to the chief engineer.

THE PHILIPPINE WOMEN

THEY DO THE WORK AND ARE MASCULINE IN STRENGTH.

The Men, in Consequence, Are Frail, Stupid and Puny—Domestic Duties Are Simple—The Women Make Their Own Clothes—Social Life Quite Gay.

Interesting views from a woman's standpoint of certain phases of the life of the Philippine women are expressed to her many friends in Atlanta by Miss Hermione Nare, who has just returned from the islands, where her father's position as chaplain in the United States army called him for many months.

"We were stationed during most of our stay in the Philippines," said Miss Nare recently, "in Pampanga, one of the northern provinces, and the people with whom we came principally in contact were of the middle and lower classes. Before the war there had been many families of the wealthy and aristocratic class there, but their beautiful homes had been burned by the Spanish and they had moved away to Manila or to other cities. The Governor and a judge with their families lived in Pampanga, but for the most part the people were not of the leisure class—that is, they are not of the class which we call idle, meaning those whose financial condition is such that work is not necessary. None of the Filipinos deem work necessary, and, therefore, they are all idle or comparatively so.

"What work is done among these two classes, at least, is done principally by the women, and the principal work is the cultivation of rice. In Pampanga rice, bamboo and bananas are the chief growths encouraged, and it is the women who give these things the little care they need. It is not at all unusual to see a man with his wife on the streets, the wife carrying the baby and perhaps some other burden, and the husband bearing a rooster under his arm. As a consequence of the fact that the women are the laborers and the men spend their time betting on cock fights, the contrast in the male and female physique is opposite to that of the white race. The women are sturdy looking—broad shouldered, broad hipped and erect, their backs masculine in strength—and the men are frail, stupid and puny, even their hands frail and slender, all of them apparently and actually fit subjects for consumption.

"The men let their wives do the work, but they are very affectionate, as they can well afford to be. It is easy to caress and say sweet things, and so the women, as far as words go, are treated well.

"Their domestic duties are simple, because their homes and their lives are so simple. The houses are bare, and, therefore, there need be but little cleaning done, but the houses are well kept and the people are also neat in person.

"The women make their own clothes, as a rule, but they do no other hand work. There is some embroidery at times on their waists, but even this is often imported from Germany. It is not unusual, too, to see a woman on the streets, her loose-flowing waist of handsome material and carefully made, and her skirt of the cheapest cotton goods and in a remarkable state of limps and neglect. Over a thin skirt, sometimes with a shapeless train, they wear at times a straight piece of black cloth merely pinned about them, two corners tucked in at the waist in front, and the others hanging in points on the sides. They wear no hose, but only sandals, which they carelessly slip off their heels when they are seated at ease, and hats were unknown to them until they saw those of the Americans, who, by the way, enjoy the Philippine custom of going bareheaded. Since the advent of several hundred American teachers, hats are being more commonly worn by the Americans.

"The social life is quite gay, dancing being the favorite amusement. Many of the young men play the violin or the guitar, and at frequent intervals family parties—which are quite large, because everybody seems to be in some way related to or connected with everybody else—are formed for a dance, and they have their own pretty square dances and the same waltz we know. In the square dances chairs are brought for the ladies to sit upon while the opposite members of the set are dancing, and the young men are very chivalrous in their attentions at this time. When the dance is over, however, their partners usually leave the girls in their seats on one side of the room, while they talk among themselves in another group. The same thing occurs at dinner parties. The girls sit in rows facing one another and the men talk among themselves, occasionally joining the girls to say a few words to them, when not actually at the table.

"The Filipinos are very fond of the theatre, and although in the provinces the actors and actresses are not of a striking ability, being natives of apparently medium education, the natives themselves seem well pleased.

"The education of the women of these classes, which would be called working classes in an industrial country, is neglected. Many of them are sent to the convents, but as a rule their education is weak and their accomplishments meager. The only native women of superior culture I met there were speakers and musicians at a demonstration commemorating the deeds of Rigel, a beloved patriot, and I was told that these women were actresses there for the occasion.

"The native women in the province where we lived did not call on the American women, whether from prejudice or custom I could not discover. In some parts of the islands the women did exchange visits, but in Pampanga, even when the Philippine young men, who enjoyed calling on the American girls, were asked to bring their sisters, the sisters declined, and it was difficult, therefore, to learn of their lives and thoughts and feelings."

even when the Philippine young men, who enjoyed calling on the American girls, were asked to bring their sisters, the sisters declined, and it was difficult, therefore, to learn of their lives and thoughts and feelings."

COAL IN ALASKA.

It Will Be the Supply Upon Which the Pacific Will Draw.

Westward from Kenai, the greatest and most extensive coal field in Alaska is reached, cropping out in many different seams, in two harbors on the Pacific and one on Bering Sea. These Chignik-Unga-Herenden Bay coal measures are the most extensive and most accessible fields in Alaska, containing coal in quality next to Kyak, standing in the front rank of North Pacific coals. The coal is hard, brilliant, clean and very strong, not crumbling under severe exposures to water, freezing and sun, nor with very rough usage.

This field is of unique value because of its location in the keystone of the North Pacific. Not only does the shortest possible steamer line from the United States or British Columbia run within twenty miles of this field, but it is also the nearest of all American coal mines to all the island possessions of the United States on the Pacific, the nearest point in fact of the American mainland to Hawaii, to Samoa, to Guam and to the Philippines, and also by nearly 2000 miles nearer than the Puget Sound mines or San Francisco to all parts of Asia, and especially to the great mining region recently developed on the shores of Bering Sea. From Portage Bay it is 1482 miles shorter to Manila, 1403 miles shorter to Guam, 344 miles shorter to Honolulu, and from Herenden Bay, 1460 miles shorter to Dutch Harbor, 1790 miles shorter to St. Michael's, 1792 miles shorter to Nome, than from the coal supplies of Seattle, Tacoma and Vancouver.—Cassier's Magazine.

WISE WORDS.

It takes a brave man to retreat from temptation.

A life without storms will be without strength.

The modern Tower of Babel is built out of dollars.

God's essentials may be hidden in our incidentals.

A steady shining, though small, is better than a great scintillation.—Ran's Horn.

Count De Rochambeau's Army.

Much was said by contemporaneous writers of the gallantry and martial appearance of America's French allies. There was the noted regiment of Auvergne, in command of which the Count de Rochambeau had gained his first laurels, but which was now commanded by his son, the Viscount, thirty years of age. A legion of 600 men was also especially admired; it was commanded by the Duke of Lauzun (Lauzun-Biron), who had gained reputation in the preceding year by the capture of Senegal.

A feeling of adventure and romance, associated with the American struggle, had caused many of the young nobles to seek this new field of achievement, who, to quote the Rochambeau's words, "brought out with them the heroic and chivalrous courage of the ancient French nobility." To their credit be it spoken also, they brought with them the ancient French politeness, for it was remarkable how soon they accommodated themselves to circumstances, make light of all the privations and inconveniences of a new country, and conformed to the familiar simplicity of republican manners.

Another officer of rank and distinction in this force was Major General the Marquis de Chastellux, a friend and relative of Lafayette, but much his senior, being at the time of the landing of the French troops in America forty-six years of age. He was not only a soldier, but a man of letters, and was familiar with courts as well as camps. Indeed, the general culture of the French officers seems to have been very high, and in this respect, as well as in their manners, they were a notable contrast to the sport-loving young squires who officered the British army.

Russian Economics.

The Russian population cannot be regarded as prosperous, or even fairly well-to-do, when it consumes per capita only one-twenty-fifth of an ounce (about one-third of a teaspoonful) of tea and two-fifths of an ounce (about a teaspoonful and a half) of sugar per day. But there are other indications that the railroads, and the vast sums of money spent in their construction, have not materially benefited as yet the laboring population. The commission appointed in 1899 by the Ministry of Finance to ascertain the reasons for the progressive impoverishment of the people in the so-called "black-earth" provinces—the most fertile part of the empire—has recently made a preliminary report in which it says that in European Russia as a whole the people are now sowing thirty-five per cent. less grain per capita than in 1865, and that in the "black-earth" provinces the decrease amounts to forty-four per cent.—The Outlook

An extradition treaty with Chile has just been concluded which will insure the return to either country of fugitives from justice who have violated fiduciary trusts. A similar convention was recently negotiated with Denmark. Slowly but surely the asylums of embezzlers and defaulters are being closed. Chile was one of the last places of refuge within the sphere of civilization for criminals of this class; there ought to be none left to them.
Crimes destructive of confidence, not the brutal crimes of violence, deal the more serious blows against the delicate machinery of finance, whereby the business of the world is conducted.
The assaults of burglars can be warded off by watchfulness, but an abuse of a trust by a fiduciary is a stab in the back.

NOTES FROM WASHINGTON.
(Special Correspondence.)

Eulogistic Sessions.—At last the house has decided to hold Sunday sessions for the delivery of eulogies upon deceased members. This has been advocated for some years, but did not meet with the approval of a majority of the members. Mr. Payne (Rep., N.
Y.), the floor leader of the majority, has declared that after consultation with members on both sides of the chamber he had been requested to ask unanimous consent that when the house adjourns on Saturday, the 28th inst., it be to meet at 11 o'clock the 29th, Sunday, the session to be devoted to the delivery of eulogies upon the life, character and services of the late Representative Cummings of New York. The request being put by Speaker Henderson there was no objection, and it was so ordered.

To Become Citizens.—Gen. Isaac Pearson, the Boer envoy in this country, who has been prominently identified with the efforts to break up the British remount camp at Port Chalmette, La., announces his intention of becoming an American citizen. He says he will then return to South Africa and engage in business. Gen.
Pearson says that he is confident the whole has not been told regarding the details of the peace treaty. He thinks that Great Britain has promised the Afrikanders independence, maintaining only a suzerainty over them. Gen.
Pearson said: "I feel confident that on June 26, when the coronation takes place, King Edward will announce to the world that independence is granted to the burghers. This action would be the greatest stroke that King Edward could possibly make." Gen.
Pearson thinks that a vast amount of American capital will be invested in mining in South Africa now that the war is over.

A Beautiful Gift.—A committee representing the employees of the rural free mail delivery service have presented a fine silver punch bowl to extended Postmaster-General Charles Emory Smith as a token of their appreciation of his work in establishing and extending the service. The first panel of the bowl shows the official order establishing the service on a permanent foundation, and is represented by the postmaster-general in the act of affixing his signature to a document making the service a part of the postal system of the country. The second represents the country postoffice, the carrier's wagon and the typical villager. The third represents a mountain road, the horse and mail wagon.
The fourth represents the farm buildings and all human and animal life in a condition of expectancy. The fifth represents the open country, with a solitary mounted mail carrier, keenly alert, while his horse is making long strides toward the frontier destination. The last panel portrays a primitive mining camp and a herd of cattle rounded up by the cowboys, awaiting the arrival of the mail carriers.
From the point of view of silversmithing it is one of the most beautiful pieces ever made in this country. The time required to complete it was two and one-half months, working day and night. A description of the bowl and the reasons for its presentation were set forth in a pamphlet accompanying the gift.

Grand Naval Maneuvres.—Orders for the grand naval maneuvers in take place next winter in the West Indies, in which three squadrons of American warships will participate, have just been issued by the navy department. They provide for war practice on a more ambitious scale than was ever attempted by this government. Fully 50 fighting craft will be engaged, and with the addition of colliers, provisioners, distilling ships, and a repair vessel, the fleet will probably be even greater than that which blockaded Santiago in the summer of 1898. The orders show that it is intended to have the North Atlantic and the South Atlantic and the European squadrons, with all available destroyers and torpedo boats, mobilize at Cu-bra Island, near Porto Rico, or Guantanamo, Cuba, about Jan. 1, 1903. Between the receipt of the orders by the squadron commanders and that time each squadron will be exercised independently, so that its officers and crews may be proficient in the more advanced fleet drills and maneuvers which will take place in the West Indies.

Lucky Dog.—Bozzie, the wonderful trick dog of George S. Clason of Chicago, which entertained the president and his family recently, was measured at the White House for a handsome new collar to be presented by Mrs.
Roosevelt. Mr. Clason gave Kermet Roosevelt one of Bozzie's pups. The collar will contain an inscription that it was presented by Mrs. Roosevelt. Mr.
Clason will assist in training Sailor Boy, the president's Chesapeake Bay dog, in mind reading, counting and the other accomplishments with which Bozzie is gifted. Sailor Boy will be taken first, however, to Oyster Bay with the rest of the Roosevelt children's menagerie.

NEW ENGLAND'S WATER POWER.

Geological Survey Studying How to Increase It by River Improvements.
The United States Geological survey has begun a careful examination of the New England rivers, with a view to collecting information regarding such conditions of their drainage basins as affect their public usefulness.

Water power in a part of the region is already developed, especially on the Merrimac and Connecticut rivers, and to a smaller extent in Maine. The authorities of the geological survey hope to increase the use of this power by encouraging improvements in the natural storage facilities on many streams and thus making it possible to save part of their flood waters. One such improvement is already planned on the Kennebec, in the construction of a dam at the outlet of Moose lake.

Another object of the investigation is the preservation of a future water supply for the many cities and large towns in the New England states. This question of municipal water supply is complicated by the increasing pollution of many streams by manufacturing refuse.

All the aspects of the question, both with regard to power and purity are being taken into consideration. Daily records of stream heights are kept and measurements are being made to ascertain the amount of flow. Purity tests are also being taken for chlorine and turbidity and the effect of pollution is being studied.

Among the streams thus watched are the Housatonic, Connecticut, Sudbury, Blackstone, Nashua, Merrimac, Kennebec and Androscoggin. The work is part of a general study of the country's water resources which the geological survey has under way.

Accomplishments of Middle Age.
For the sober encouragement of people who have reached later middle age, a famous correspondent of the British Weekly has written a letter presenting examples of great deeds accomplished after the half-century mark had been reached. He mentions Lincoln, who became president at fifty-two; Milton, who published Paradise Lost at fifty-nine; Handel, who wrote his Lives of the Poets at sixty-eight; Samuel Richardson, who attained success after fifty; and so on through a cheerful compilation of similar optimistic evidence. This is pleasant reading for young and old—for the young, because it confirms their own trust in the future; for their elders because it renews a hope that maybe was about to lose a shade of its glow and warmth. To the latter it recalls the inspiring example of the old gentleman who studied Hindostane at the age of eighty, and the old lady of seventy who took up fine embroidery because her eyes had begun to fail and she wished to exercise them. Bless the old people, of whom many accomplish so much after the age of fifty that their previous years seem to have been merely a preparatory course in the understanding of true happiness and the best methods of bestowing it upon others. For the first fifty years of life are those of struggle and stress; in the subsequent years often lies the true achievement.
It may not be a book, a poem, or a of pain, from the crude clay of his own inchoate nature.—Harper's Weekly.

Mrs. Sophie Binns, President Young People's Christian Temperance Union, Fruitvale, Bal., Cured of Congestion and Inflammation of the Ovaries by Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Eighteen months ago I was a pretty sick woman. I had felt for some months that I gradually grew weaker, but finally I had such severe pains I could hardly stand it.
I had taken cold during menstruation and this developed into congestion of the ovaries and inflammation, and I could not bear to walk or stand on my feet. The doctor recommended an operation which I would not hear of. One of my friends advised me to try Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I gave it a trial. Can you imagine my feeling when within two months I felt considerably better, my general health was improved, and my pains had entirely disappeared. I kept taking it six weeks more and am now enjoying the best of health, thanks to you. Yours truly, MRS. SOPHIE BINNS."

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhoea, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, bloating (or flatulence), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues, and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E.

Cuticura
SOAP

MILLIONS OF WOMEN Use CUTICURA SOAP, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure, for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales, and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening, and soothing red, rough, and sore hands, for baby rashes, itchings, and chafings, in the form of baths for annoying irritations and inflammations, or too free or offensive perspiration, in the form of washes for ulcerative weaknesses, and many sanative, antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, especially mothers, and for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. No other medicated soap is to be compared with it for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair, and hands. No other foreign or domestic toilet soap, however expensive, is to be compared with it for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. Thus it combines in ONE SOAP at ONE PRICE, the BEST skin and complexion soap, and the BEST toilet and baby soap in the world.

"THE LINE IS BUSY."

"The line is busy," so why fret and make yourself miserable over what can't be helped? Just possess your soul in patience and wait your turn. Your telephone ring will be answered in regular order. The difficulty is that we all demand the first hearing. Too many of us have come to believe that the intensive personal pronoun "I" is practically the only part of speech in the English language. We assume undue proportions. We have come to think that when we move every other body must get out of the way, so we frequently find ourselves butt against some object that will not budge an inch. To get at your real size, you must let some other one put the tape line over you. "The line is busy" should be posted in every business office. Wait your turn like a sensible man.

"SLOPPING OVER."

Say what you may, there is still an advantage and a virtue in occasionally slopping over. There comes a decided relief to him who says what he has to say without stint or restraint. In spite of Emerson's great dislike of the superlative, we have a good deal of liking for it. There is something forbidding and repulsive in that cold, formal conservatism which constantly fears that it may overstate itself. David, the sweet singer of Israel, abounded in that superlative form of expression which has so closely held the attention of the ages. We just love the man or woman who literally pours the superlative all over us. It is to be remembered that no one slops over until full of his subject, and it is no fault to be so filled with whatever subject you have in hand, as to run over at the top.

CONCERT.

A concert was given Monday evening in the town hall by the Misses Tufts, assisted by Mrs. Jessie Downer-Eaton. The concert was enjoyed by a large number of the musical people of Lexington. A number of people from out of town were also present. The program was a good one and was well rendered. Miss Tufts draws a big, round tone and plays brilliantly and with finish. She was at her best in the second part of number three on the program. The performance of the first part of the same number was not quite up to the standard of the second part. It was rather surprising that Miss Tufts should lower the very high grade of the program by playing Raff's "Cavatina" as an encore to this number.

Miss Bessie Tufts handled the German words in her first group of songs remarkably well. Not every one can sing the German words, or the English ones either, for that matter, distinctly enough to be understood. Miss Tufts has a contralto of fine quality and a good range. "The Japanese Love Song," made a hit and was repeated. Mrs. Eaton is a perfect accompanist and her three short piano pieces were highly appreciated. Mrs. Eaton is a well known musician in Boston.

The program: Suite, piano and violin, No. 3, Canzonetta con Variazioni, No. 4, Rondo a la Russe, Schutt, Mrs. Eaton and Miss Tufts; songs, "Schoene Wiege Meiner Leiden," Schuman; "Lithauisches Lied," Chopin; "Heimweh Lied," Nos. 2 and 3, "Ziegeunerlied," Brahms, Miss Bessie Tufts. Violin, Romance from Second Concerto, Wieniawski; Zortzico, Sarasate, Miss Helen Tufts. Piano, Prelude, Serenade, Sinding; valse—a la bien amee, Schutt, Mrs. Jessie Downer-Eaton. Songs, "Sweetheart Thy Lips Are Touched With Flame," Chadwick; "On the Way to Kew," A. Foote; "Irish Love Song," Margaret R. Lang; "Japanese Love Song," Thomas, Miss Bessie Tufts. Violin, Hungarian Rhapsody, Hauser, Miss Helen Tufts; Song, (with obligato), Elegie, Massenet.

Graves—Butler.

Wednesday evening at the residence of Mrs. Samuel Cloughs, her sister, Miss Alice C. Butler was married to Owen E. Graves by Rev. F. A. MacDonald. Miss Lizzie Graves was maid of honor, and Samuel McLeod was best man. The ceremony was performed under a beautiful canopy of ferns and wild morning glories, in the presence of a large group of friends. After the wedding the company sat down to a generous repast amid congratulations and good wishes from all. Mr. and Mrs. Graves left soon after for Worcester. They will make their residence for a time with Mr. and Mrs. Cloughs.

About eight weeks ago a party of 10 girls associated themselves under the name of the Waverley Lend-a-Hand club, to aid as far as they might be able, some of their less fortunate sisters. Miss Blanche Benton was elected president. The organization is to hold an entertainment and fair in Waverley hall, Wednesday evening, June 25. Doors open, 6.30. Entertainment at 8. The entertainment will consist of musical and literary numbers and a physical culture drill. Miss Jeanette Harris is assisting and drilling the participants. The proceeds of next week's entertainment will be devoted toward paying the board of some unfortunate city child at Waverley, during the summer.

Fifth Money.
Eureka won fifth prize of $50 at the play-out in Charlestown Tuesday. Number 22 on the list, when her turn came, she distanced her predecessors by a good margin, making an actual play of 190 feet two inches, which was cut by corrected measurement to 188 feet 7 inches. There is some doubt in the minds of many who saw the play-out as to whether Eureka did not really exceed her official score by many feet, as the paper had not been changed for some time out at the end, and some thought, too, that she had shot beyond even the farthest paper.

NEW BELMONT LIBRARY.

the masterly hand and genius of the architect, Mr. Emerson, can produce, and in every detail showing of his personal care and thought.

William R. Emerson, the architect of the building, was then introduced, who spoke of the work on the building and of the extreme modesty of the donor, Mr. Emerson advised, as the best mark of appreciation of the gift by the townspeople, to use the library, both day and night.

Hon. J. H. Benton of Boston was introduced, and delivered an address of statistical nature.

The Belmont Orchestral club furnished selections during the evening.

The library, which is one of the most modern in the state, faces on Pleasant street. The situation is excellent. On the same plot of land, about 200 feet to the right, stands the handsome town hall, in which the library was formerly located. In the rear, about the same distance away, is the new high school building.

The building cost, approximately, $50,000, the land on which it stands being given by the town. It contains about 15,000 volumes at present.

It is constructed of brick, with granite trimmings. The surrounding land slopes back from the street, so that on the front the building is two stories in height, while in the rear it is three stories. It is finished throughout in oak, and has polished floors.

Barker—Burdakin.

Emily J. Burdakin of Mill street and John H. Barker of North Cambridge were married in the Unitarian church last Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. Rev. F. O. Hall of North Cambridge performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. C. A. Allen. The bride was given away by her father, Arthur L. Burdakin. She was attended by a maid of honor, Miss A. Louise Barker, and by four bridesmaids: Mary E. Cook of South Lincoln, Edith R. Stinson of Cambridge, Ada H. Phipps of Wakefield, and Elizabeth V. Morrison of Waverley. H. Gilbert Burdakin was best man. The ushers were Herbert and Henry Wyeth of Cambridge, Converse Wyeth of Needham and George Davis of Cambridgeport. Mrs. Harry F. Fister of Arlington was the organist.

The bride wore white lace over white silk trimmed with white chiffon, and carried bride's roses. The maid of honor was dressed in white organdie, and the bridesmaids in white over pink.

The church was handsomely decorated with masses of garden and field flowers by a number of young ladies of the Y. P. R. U. It was the first wedding ever held in the church. Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at which about 600 were present. The bride and groom, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Burdakin, John Barker and Miss Louise Barker, formed the receiving party. Madame Schlitter of Cambridge catered.

An Enterprise reporter spent a very pleasant hour Saturday afternoon with J. V. McCarthy, owner of Trapelo Heights park, looking about the premises. Mr. McCarthy opened about 38 acres of land seven weeks ago as a new settlement, and commenced work with a force of men laying out and constructing roads. The property is now well along divided with rough graded streets and avenues, and many warmly citizens are amongst the purchasers of lots, a large number of which are already bought. George Wilson, a Belmont attorney, has examined the titles and finds them clear, and has purchased eight lots for himself. It is the owner's idea to improve the property just as fast as possible, and he will construct water mains, and petition the town to accept streets just as quickly as his builders require.
